

'ROUND 'N' 'ROUND

The society editor covers the ball game.

"The bright solar rays scattered over the dun-colored diamond which was set off by a dainty edging of green.

"The audience, which is termed in parlance of the athletic world, 'fans,' seemed enthusiastic over the approaching spectacle.

"The gay tripping of the smiling players onto the field brought a ripple of applause from the orchestra seats and the balcony.

Each player for the local team was attractively dressed in light grey flannel with a fetching dark stripe.

"Tiny visored caps were perched at a fashionable angle over their sleek coiffures.

The opposing players brought a gasp of appreciation from all present when they appeared in chic white outfits, snugly fitting with normal waistlines.

"The gay crimson of their hose proclaimed the ultimate in the season mode.

Their caps were matching and the only unharmonizing notes were in the dingy black of their footwear and gloves.

"The game was lovely. The graceful players hurried from spot to spot on the diamond, whimsically tapping each other with the ball.

"The harmony of combined voices rose now and then from the enthusiastic watchers.

"A friendly man behind the man who throws the ball to the one with the bat waved continually at his friends on the field in the seats.

"On the whole, the afternoon was well-spent by those many sport lovers who gather in the stadium.

"The only disappointment to find that the most DIVINE person had his back to the seats all the time.

"To think that such an Apollo-like countenance should have been facing away when the rest of the players faced the audience!

"The local team won—or lost—or something like that.

"It doesn't matter; it was SUCH a colorful game.

Irish Free State Bans Blue Shirts In Drastic Order

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Aug. 22.—UP.—The Government of President Eamon De Valera tonight issued an order banning the blue shirts, semi-fascist opposition organization violently opposed to the administration.

The ban on the blue shirts following growing tension in the Irish Free State, developed in the past fortnight. It came to a climax on Sunday, when the blue shirts, men and women, held parades throughout the country in defiance of the government's orders.

Critical Situation
A critical situation was created, the De Valera faction contended, paralleling those in Germany and Austria.

General Owen O'Duffy, head of the blue shirts, publicly declared the organization would not surrender or "be driven under ground."

Hence, a dramatic test of strength which may result in violent clashes between O'Duffy, former commander of the Civil Guard, and the President—leaders of opposing forces in the last civil war—was expected.

Military Court
Simultaneously with the banning of the blue shirts, the government announced the appointment of a military tribunal which is vested with the powers of life and death, for trying offenders on a wide range of possible charges.

The charges punishable by death include drilling by outlawed organizations considered a danger to the nation's peace.

Three Spend Night in Icy Bay Waters

MARTINEZ, Aug. 22.—Exhausted and suffering from exposure, three Pittsburg commercial fishermen were brought here today after spending Monday night in the waters of Carquinez straits.

The three are: S. Robino, 63, his son, Jack, 20, and A. Aiello, 60. They started out on a fishing expedition late Monday.

After dark they were near Mare Island harbor when their craft was suddenly struck amidships by what they believed to be a river steamer or another large vessel.

They managed to leap clear of the craft's own launch before the actual collision. After the crash, the cabin, about four feet square, became detached from the small boat and rose to the surface.

The three men clung to it for four hours while the current brought them toward the Mare Island shore. There their cries for help attracted a watchman who sent out rescuers.

The three are recovering today at their homes.

Dr. Tully Knoles Suffers Stroke; Now Recovering

Dr. Tully C. Knoles, president of the College of the Pacific, Stockton, and who is well known in Richmond, was reported recovering last night from an apparent heart attack.

Dr. Knoles, who collapsed while showing his mount, "Bolero," in the class for novice stock horses at the Twelfth Annual Stockton National Horse show late Monday night, learned as he was recuperating that his horse had won the event.

As a huge crowd watched from the grandstand, Dr. Knoles slumped on the saddle and fell.

He was assisted to the side of the ring, where he again collapsed. He was taken in an ambulance to his residence.

The crowd cheered late reports that Dr. Knoles was better.

Loggers To Go to Work

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 22.—UP. Five thousand unemployed loggers and lumbermen in the western pine division will return to work and pay-rolls will be boosted by $15,000,000 under the NRA lumber code, David T. Mason, manager of the territory, predicted on his return from Washington, D. C., today.

The code, which went into effect today, will swell the total lumber pay-roll in the northwest to approximately $48,000,000. Cost of production will rise 33 per cent under the code, Mason said, necessitating an increase in sales price.

There are at present approximately 1,000 mills and lumber camps operating in the territory, he estimated.

A meeting of all operators in the industry will be held in Klamath Falls on Aug. 30, at which time the code and its administration will be outlined.

STORE KEEPERS URGED TO KEEP STRICT GUARD

A bad check artist has victimized a Richmond merchant.

Police last night issued a statement asking all local shopkeepers to keep close watch on all strangers attempting to cash checks.

The fellow who operated here takes much trouble for little profit. Five dollars seems to be his goal with each victim.

Is Busy Fellow
He also has operated in the bay region and in the San Joaquin valley, local police stated.

Richard Plate, local insurance man, reported to officers yesterday that he had received a rubber check in payment for two automobile insurance policies and a membership in an automobile club.

Check For Policy
In taking the check which was made out for $32, Plate returned $5 in change to the policyholder.

It later developed that the car which the man had insured was stolen from Frank Garay in Redwood City last week.

He used Garay's name in taking out the policy here.

Rick Modesto
Another of his depredations on record occurred in Modesto this week. He took out collision, public liability and property damage insurance on his car from a Modesto insurance man.

He wrote a worthless $41 check for the policy and got $5 in change after giving another spurious draft for membership in an automobile club.

Then he went on his way, first, however declining an theft insurance policy on the ground he already had one. He also used Garay's name in this case.

Not Getting Rich
Inasmuch as he is forced to make several trips and go to much trouble for his $5 per check, authorities feel that he is not growing wealthy rapidly.

Richmond police are cooperating with San Joaquin valley and San Mateo police in apprehending him.

He is described only as young and well-dressed.

Once In a While Policemen Get Into Some Embarrassing Spot

OAKLAND, Aug. 22.—Oh, gosh! This policeman got in a tight spot before a giggling jury of twelve married women, Patrolman M. B. Kennedy was forced to describe the lack of attire of two girls charged with dancing "nude" in an Oakland night club.

Miss Phyllis Lane, 23, and Miss Dorothy Shannon, 21, were the calm but amused defendants.

Talking It Over
"When I saw them they had nothing on," said Policeman Kennedy.

"Nothing at all?" asked the prosecuting attorney.

"Well, nothing to speak of," replied the witness.

"Then let's speak of it," continued the attorney, "was it a strip dance?"

"I don't know," asserted the officer. "I've never seen a strip dance."

He said he took a seat in the audience and waited. Miss Shannon came on first.

"She did a funny kind of a dance," he said.

"What kind of a dance?" asked the p. a.

Hindu Rose
"I guess you'd call it a snake dance," blushed the policeman. "It was a kind of up and down dance. She just went up and down but she didn't get anywhere."

"And she wasn't wearing anything?"

"Only a few patches here and there. I didn't notice them—much," David Oliphant, attorney for the girls asked the witness if it was not a fact that both had worn black lace skirts when they came on the stage.

"Well, maybe," said the witness. "But not for long."

Asked if the girls had worn brassieres the witness blushed and admitted that he didn't know what a brassier was. The attorney illustrated—as well as he could.

Vienna Alarmed Over Nazi Plot To Raid Border

(Copyright, 1933, by United Press)
VIENNA, Austria, Aug. 22.—UP. Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss, assured of allied support, ordered over 1,000 picked men to mobilize in preparation for attack on the Bavarian border.

The government's action came on the receipt of military intelligence from the United Press agency, that the Nazis, fomenting trouble along the frontier, were planning to invade Austria, and even larger scale invasions next month.

Reinforce Patrols
The government will reinforce the Austrian armed forces already patrolling the German border as a result of the recent anti-Dollfuss campaign being conducted by radio broadcasts and airplanes, dropping propaganda leaflets.

These Austrian patrols include soldiers and gendarmes as well as customs officials and details from the West Austrian heimewehr, figures available at the war office showed.

Crack Shots
Thousands of volunteers are being selected from the best marksmen in eastern and southern Austria.

The Vienna heimewehr includes two battalions. Every man to gain admittance to this body must first prove his marksmanship on a rifle range.

The Dollfuss government hopes to move the reinforcements to the border early in September, if the Nazi campaign continues, it was understood.

Trustees of High School Meet Again

Although it seemed to be a futile gesture, the Richmond Union high school board of trustees yesterday convened to see if any progress had been made toward the remodeling and strengthening of the Roosevelt junior high school.

"To fix or not to fix?" That seems to be the question with which the school board is now most concerned.

For the past several weeks, the local trustees have been endeavoring to get something done at the school, but red tape at the state capital unwinds slowly, and even now there are many knots to untangle and no end of wrinkles to smooth out.

At yesterday's meeting of the board Gregory Stone, architect, stated that the plans for the alterations at the school were now in the hands of the state architect and also that he had made application for a building permit.

"There is nothing that can be done," he said, "unless we hear from the state office."

The school board appointed Elmer Freethy as inspector of the job when it gets started. He will receive $10 a day. In case a foreman is required on the job, Fred Hosking will be employed, the board stated.

The name of the inspector chosen by the board must have his name with the state office at least 10 days before the work starts in order to give the state department a chance to pass on his qualifications. More red tape.

A complaint from residents near the high school that dust from the athletic field seeped into their homes was taken up by the school board. It seems that the dust flies toward the complainants' homes when the athletic field is being scraped.

Some sort of dustless scraping is to be devised, if possible, the board decided.

Government To Destroy Cotton Crop

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—UP.—Government agents will get behind the plow to destroy cotton on land of farmers who have not fulfilled their signed crop reduction contracts by tomorrow midnight, the agricultural adjustment administration announced late today.

Federal agents will drive mules into all unplowed contract fields after tomorrow midnight, officials said, defying possible shotgun or irritate farmers.

No Vicious Acts
Officials of the A. A. A. asked that citizens do no "night riding" or engage in any "Ku Klux Klan" activities in helping to enforce the cotton contracts.

It was emphasized that the government would take care of those farmers whom one official called "chiselers" who signed contracts but have not fulfilled them.

"There is no evidence of any widespread disposition upon the part of cotton producers to seek to evade the terms of adjustment contracts," said Cheser C. Davis, director of production, in announcing the government's plan to complete its $110,000,000 cotton reduction program.

"Only a few isolated instances have come to our attention, but in fairness to all producers and in fairness to the government it will be the policy to require performance of every crop reduction offer.

"Producers who have received their individual notices of acceptance and who fail to comply with their contracts by the time set, will be notified that action will be taken under section 19 of the contract."

"Action" means the actual plowing under of cotton by county agents, it was made clear. Section 19 authorizes the government to destroy crops if the contracting farmer himself does not do so.

PROSECUTOR IS SEEKING ROPE LOVING JURY PANEL

SAN JOSE, Cal., Aug. 22.—UP. Prosecutors of David Lamson, 31-year-old sales manager of the Stanford University Press accused of first degree murder in the "bathtub slaying" of his wife Allene, sought a "hanging jury" as they questioned prospective veniremen today.

Curiously, a majority of talesmen who declared they opposed the death penalty were men. Women prospects more often than not smilingly announced they would vote to hang Lamson on circumstantial evidence if it was strong enough.

Men Removed
Defense Attorney Edwin Rea concentrated on removing women from the jury box. A majority or those removed on state challenges were men.

When the second day of the trial ended the prosecution had used seven of its 20 challenges. The defense had also used seven. The tentative jury lineup, still subject to many removals, was six women and six men.

Lamson, the young playwright, poet and amateur actor who had been known to neighbors as the "perfect husband," and who is accused of bludgeoning his 28-year-old wife to death as she stood nude in her bathroom, was glum when veniremen declared they would not hesitate to hang him on strong evidence. Surprisingly cheerful yesterday, he sat silent for the first part today tensely following the verbal duel of attorneys.

Trite Questions
Questions to veniremen followed a monotonous pattern: Did the defendant know any figures in the case? Had newspaper accounts influenced them? What was their attitude toward capital punishment toward circumstantial evidence?

The state made no effort to learn their opinions regarding a wife's duty in marital relations. It propounded no hypothetical questions as to whether the veniremen could conceive of a husband's frustrated ardor, or of domestic quarrels and minor jealousies as motives for a slaying.

Pre-trial activities of Sheriff Emiz had indicated prosecutor Allan Lindsay will attempt to portray Lamson as a man given to violent tempers, one whose advances to his wife were repelled through as subterfuge on the part of Mrs. Lamson the night before she was found dead in her bathtub, her hair combed by four blows. Lindsay's failure to question jurors along that line indicated a possible chance in prosecution prosecution theories regarding a motive.

May Call Maid
The state was expected to call Clara Malwitz, former maid in the Lamson home, to testify she left the position in fear because of Lamson's alleged storms of temper. The defense has another former maid, Deloris Roberts, who has said the Lamsons' home life was as mutually devoted and serene as Stanford campus friends had believed.

Speaking Of Sports

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 29.—UP.—Whitey Hewitt, wrestler, the "Tennessee Terror" has evolved a new science of slam and slash within the squared ring.

Whitey's new theory is simply this—"If you can't throw 'em, hang 'em."

After much practice, he has worked out a new hold, recently ruled legal "rasslin'" which puts the fear into his opponents.

Dusck Victim In a match here with Ernie Dusck, Nebraskan, Hewitt demonstrated his hold to amazed and screaming spectators. It always is good for a thrill for the audience and though he has used it on numerous occasions since he first exhibited it on Dusck it never fails to prove electrifying.

Forcing Dusck into the ropes, Hewitt shoved his head through, seized the lower rope and gave it a neat twist. In a trice Dusck's oxygen was shut off as effectively as if his neck were in a vise. He struggled, kicked and writhed. His tongue protruded. The spectators screamed bloody murder.

Referee Scott, thinking he was witnessing murder instead of "rasslin'" rushed to Dusck's assistance. Hewitt promptly kicked the referee into semi-sensibility, and went on with his choking act.

Police interfered in time to prevent a riot. And thus was the new hold demonstrated.

Other wrestlers protested it was viciously inhumane and unfair. Hewitt said they were only jealous, that the hold was fair and a whiz.

Since then, wrestlers have been concentrating on methods of keeping from being "strung up" when they take on Hewitt.

ROBERTS GIRL IN SPEED NET

SAN JOSE, Aug. 22.—Within a few hours after her wedding in Vallejo, Mrs. Warren B. Sorenson the former Mary Dolores Roberts, one of the key witnesses in the Lamson case, had temporarily side-tracked her new husband and was making a desperate attempt to go into hiding with her mother.

So determined was her attempt to get away from the public eye that a traffic officer, in response to excited phone calls that two autos were tearing at break-neck speed through the streets here, stopped the racers and found that the driver of one was the erstwhile Miss Roberts.

In giving her name to Motor-cycle Policeman Tony Russo, she didn't mention the fact that she was married but gave her name simply as Dolores Roberts.

Beside her sat a woman who, according to Russo, bore a marked resemblance to Mrs. Chloe Roberts, Dolores' mother. There was no other person in the car.

At that moment a figure leaped from the second car and approached Mrs. Sorenson's side of the automobile. She glanced up fearfully, saw a camera pointing at her, and frantically seized a robe from the car and buried her face in it. The man with the camera explained to Russo that he was a newspaper cameraman who had been following the Roberts car for some miles.

What the Blue Eagle means to you and how you can get it

The President's Reemployment Program is advancing to complete success. No such sweeping demonstration of the unity of a whole people against a national danger has ever been made. • In this vast surge of patriotism it is necessary to keep our common purpose always clear. When 125,000,000 people attempt to act as one man there are sure to be some misunderstandings. It is time to restate as clearly as possible the aim of the whole endeavor and the duty of each individual. • That is the purpose of this message—to state officially, briefly and clearly the simple rules for common guidance. • It is an evidence of the self-sacrificing service of the whole country that this newspaper has donated this space. In that spirit the whole country is acting. • This plan depends wholly on united action. That unity is almost complete. In the next few days let us close up every gap in the ranks and nail the flag of the Blue Eagle on the door of every man who works another man.

OFFICIAL EXPLANATION OF THE PRESIDENT'S REEMPLOYMENT AGREEMENT (Sometimes mislabeled "The Blanket Code")

This Agreement binds you to put its terms into effect from the time you sign the Certificate of Compliance until December 31, 1933; but when the President has approved a Code for your trade or industry, that Code takes the place of this Agreement.

You agree:

Child Labor

(1) After August 31, 1933, not to employ any person under 16 years of age, except that persons between 14 and 16 may be employed (but not in manufacturing or mechanical industries) for not to exceed 3 hours per day and those hours between 7 A. M. and 7 P. M. in such work as will not interfere with hours of day school.

This means that after August 31, 1933, you agree not to employ any children under 14 years old in any kind of business. You may employ children between 14 and 16 years old, but only for three hours a day and those hours must be between 7 in the morning and 7 at night, and arranged so as not to interfere with school. You agree not to employ any children under 16 years old in a manufacturing or mechanical industry, at any time.

Maximum Hours

(2) Not to work any accounting, clerical, banking, office, service, or sales employees (except outside salesmen) in any store, office, department, establishment, or public utility, or on any automotive or horse-drawn passenger, express, delivery, or freight service, or in any other place or manner, for more than 40 hours in any 1 week and not to reduce the hours of any store or service operation to below 52 hours in any 1 week, unless such hours were less than 52 hours per week before July 1, 1933, and in the latter case not to reduce such hours at all.

This means that you agree not to work any of the kinds of employees listed in this paragraph (except outside salesmen) for more than 40 hours a week. This paragraph covers all employees except factory workers, mechanical workers and artisans. However, no limit on hours and no minimum wage applies to purely agricultural labor, domestic servants, or persons working for you solely on a commission basis; but, if you have persons working for you who are guaranteed a base pay in addition to their commission, then these base pay plus commissions must equal the minimum wage.

This Agreement sets no maximum on the number of hours you may keep your business open. You agree not to keep your wholesale, retail, or service establishment open less than 52 hours a week unless it was open less than 52 hours a week before July 1, 1933. Even then you agree to keep it open as long as you used to keep it open before July 1. Of course, you have always kept your store open shorter hours in the summer months you can continue to do so this summer, but you should pay your employees the same amount each week that they will get when you keep your store open full time.

The stores with more than two employees which remain open the longest are contributing the most to carrying out the purpose of the Agreement. The stores with two or less employees which can be open only the minimum number of hours required, are doing the most to fulfill their part.

(3) Not to employ any factory or mechanical worker or artisan more than a maximum week of 35 hours until December 31, 1933, but with the right to work a maximum week of 40 hours for any 6 weeks within this period; and not to employ any worker more than 8 hours in any one day.

This means that if you are employing factory or mechanical workers or artisans, you agree not to work them more than 35 hours a week and not more than 8 hours in any one day.

When you have more than the usual amount of work to do and can't get additional workers, you may employ this class of employee up to 40 hours a week in any 6 weeks, but even in this case you must not work them more than 8 hours a day.

(4) The maximum hours fixed in the foregoing paragraphs (2) and (3) shall not apply to employees in establishments employing more than two persons in towns of less than 2,500 population which towns are not part of a larger trade area; nor to registered pharmacists or other professional persons employed in their profession nor to employees in a managerial or executive capacity, who now receive more than $35 per week; nor to employees on emergency maintenance and repair work; nor to very special cases where restrictions of hours of highly skilled workers on continuous processes would unavoidably reduce production but, in any such special case, at least time and one-third shall be paid for hours worked in excess of the maximum. Population for the purposes of this agreement shall be determined by reference to the 1930 Federal census.

This means that there are certain employees whom you may work longer hours than are allowed by paragraphs (2) and (3) P. R. A.

If your business is in a small town (population less than 2,500 by the 1930 census) and you do not employ more than two persons, the limit on hours does not apply to these employees. If your town is really a part of a larger business community, the limit on hours does apply to these employees.

The limit on hours does not apply to your employees who are wholly or primarily managers or executives, as long as they receive $35 a week. Professional persons, like doctors, lawyers, registered pharmacists and nurses, may be employed without any limit on hours.

Where employees are doing emergency jobs of maintenance or repair work, they may be kept on the job for longer hours, but you agree to pay them at least time and one-third for the hours worked over the limits set in paragraphs (2) and (3) P. R. A.

There are a few very special cases where highly skilled workers must be allowed to work more than the limit of hours in order to keep up output on continuous processes, but, here again, you agree to pay them at least time and one-third for the hours they work over the limits set in paragraphs (2) and (3) P. R. A.

Minimum Wages

(5) Not to pay any of the classes of employees mentioned in paragraph (2) less than $15 per week in any city of over 500,000 population, or in the immediate trade area of such city; nor less than $14.50 per week in any city of between 250,000 and 500,000 population, or in the immediate trade area of such city; nor less than $14 per week in any city of between 2,500 and 250,000 population, or in the immediate trade area of such city and in towns of less than 2,500 population to increase all wages by not less than 20 per cent, provided that this shall not require wages in excess of $12 per week.

This sets out the schedule of minimum wages which you agree to pay all employees, except factory or mechanical workers or artisans. The wages are set out in terms of dollars per week, but if your employees are paid by the hour, you may use the following schedule:

Place of Business:	Minimum Wage:
(Population by 1930 Census)
In cities of 500,000 or over.....	37½ cents per hour
In cities of between 250,000 and 500,000.....	36¼ cents per hour
In cities of between 2,500 and 250,000.....	35 cents per hour

If your business is in a town of less than 2,500 population, you agree to raise all wages at least 20%. If raising all wages 20% causes you to pay over $12 per week, then you need only pay the $12 per week.

If there is any doubt in your mind as to whether your business is in the "immediate trade area" of a city, you should ask your local Chamber of Commerce or other similar organization for a decision on the matter. The general rule is that the "immediate trade area" is the area in which there is direct retail competition.

(6) Not to pay any employee of the classes mentioned in paragraph (3) less than 40 cents per hour unless the hourly rate for the same class of work on July 15, 1929, was less than 40 cents per hour, in which latter case not to pay less than the hourly rate on July 15, 1929, and in no event less than 30 cents per hour. It is agreed that this paragraph establishes a guaranteed minimum rate of pay regardless of whether the employee is compensated on the basis of a time rate or on a piece-work performance.

This fixes the minimum wage which you agree to pay factory and mechanical workers and artisans. The following schedule may help you to find out the proper rate:

If the rate for the same kind of work in the same community on July 15, 1929, was:	you agree to pay:
More than 40c an hour.....	40c an hour
30c to 40c an hour.....	The July 15, 1929 hourly rate
Less than 30c an hour.....	30c an hour

Instead of paying by the hour, you may pay by the week at a rate which gives the same weekly earnings for a week of 35 hours. For example, instead of 40c an hour, you may pay $14 per week.

If you had a contract on or before August 1, 1933, with a learner or apprentice, you do not have to pay him the minimum wage, but no one should be classed as a learner or an apprentice who has ever been employed as a regular worker in your industry.

(7) Not to reduce the compensation for employment now in excess of the minimum wages hereby agreed to (notwithstanding that the hours worked in such employment may be hereby reduced) and to increase the pay for such employment by an equitable readjustment of all pay schedules.

Two official interpretations—No. 1 and No. 20—have been issued, explaining this paragraph. You can get copies of these at your local Chamber of Commerce or from the nearest N. R. A. representative.

Anti-Subterfuge

(8) Not to use any subterfuge to frustrate the spirit and intent of this Agreement which is, among other things, to increase employment by a universal covenant, to remove obstructions to commerce, and to shorten hours and to raise wages for the shorter week to a living basis.

This is the heart of the whole Agreement. The President's Plan is to cure this depression by increasing purchasing power. You can help him put this plan over by voluntarily signing this Agreement to shorten hours and raise wages. There is no force to compel you to sign this Agreement. It is not law. It is a personal agreement between you and the President. The President expects you to do everything in your power to carry out the spirit of the Agreement after you sign it. This means whole-hearted cooperation by really earning the Blue Eagle—not by just getting it and then not doing your part.

It would be a "subterfuge to frustrate the spirit and intent of this Agreement" to sign it and then put all of your employees on a straight commission basis—or any other trick to avoid doing what you promise to do.

HOW TO EARN THE BLUE EAGLE

1. Sign the President's Reemployment Agreement (P. R. A.).
2. Shorten Hours of factory workers to 35 hours per week, and of all other employees to 40 hours per week. (See paragraphs 2, 3 and 4, P. R. A.)
3. Raise Wages. (See paragraphs 5, 6, and 7, P. R. A.)
4. Don't Employ Child Labor. (See paragraph 1, P. R. A.)
5. Cooperate with the President. To do this:
 - (a) Live Up to the Agreement. (See paragraph 8, P. R. A.)
 - (b) Don't Profit. (See paragraph 9, P. R. A.)
 - (c) Deal Only with Others "Under the Blue Eagle." (See paragraphs 10 and 12.)
 - (d) Get a Code in by September 1st. (See paragraphs 11 and 13, P. R. A.)

HOW TO GET THE BLUE EAGLE

1. Sign the President's Reemployment Agreement.
2. Mail the Signed Agreement to your District Office of the Department of Commerce.
3. Put the Agreement into Effect (as outlined above in "How to Earn the Blue Eagle").
4. Sign a Certificate of Compliance. This is a slip distributed with the Agreement. It says: "I/we certify that we have adjusted the hours of labor and the wages of our employees to accord with the President's Reemployment Agreement, which we have signed."
5. Deliver the Certificate of Compliance to Your Post Office. The Postmaster will give you your Blue Eagle.

EXCEPTIONAL CASES

1. Where a Code Has Been Submitted. (See paragraph 13, President's Reemployment Agreement.) If your whole Trade or Industry is unable to live up to the President's Agreement, you should get together at once, with other employers in your Trade or Industry and, in a group, submit a Code of Fair Competition to the N. R. A. in Washington.

Since it takes some time after a Code has been submitted for it to be finally approved, your group may petition N. R. A. to substitute the wages and hours provisions of your Code for the wages and hours provisions of the President's Reemployment Agreement.

If N. R. A. finds that the Code provisions are within the spirit of the President's Reemployment Agreement, it will consent to such substitutions. If N. R. A. does consent there will be an official notice in all the papers. You may then put the indicated provisions into effect in place of the indicated paragraphs of the President's Reemployment Agreement. In this case you should add to your Certificate of Compliance the following clause: "To the extent of N. R. A. consent as announced, we have complied with the President's Agreement by complying with the substituted provisions of the Code submitted by the Trade/Industry."

If the substitution is consented to after you have already put the President's Reemployment Agreement into full effect, and after you have already gotten your Blue Eagle, you may still put the substituted provisions into effect without signing another Certificate of Compliance.

2. Where a Code Has Been Approved. If a Code of Fair Competition for your Trade or Industry has already been finally approved by the President, you need not sign the President's Reemployment Agreement in order to get the Blue Eagle. The same is true if you are subject to a Code which has been put into effect temporarily by agreement between the President and representatives of your Trade or Industry; but in either of these cases, you must sign a Certificate of Compliance, adding to it the following statement: "We have complied with the operative provisions of the Code for the Trade/Industry."

3. Cases of Individual Hardship. (Paragraph 14, President's Reemployment Agreement.) If there are some peculiar reasons why a particular provision of the President's Agreement will cause you, individually, a great and unavoidable hardship, you may still get the Blue Eagle by taking the following steps:

(a) Sign the Agreement and mail it to your District Office of the Department of Commerce.

(b) Prepare a petition to N. R. A. setting out the reasons why you cannot comply with certain provisions, and requesting that an exception be made in your case.

(c) Have this petition approved by your Trade Association. If there is no Trade Association for your business, have your petition approved by your local Chamber of Commerce or other representative organization designated by N. R. A.

(d) If the Trade Association, or other organization, approves your petition, send it to N. R. A. in Washington with this approval.

(e) Comply with all the provisions of the Agreement except the one you are petitioning to have excepted.

(f) Sign the Certificate of Compliance, adding to it the following clause: "Except for those interim provisions regarding wages and hours which have been approved by the Trade Association." Deliver this Certificate of Compliance to your Post Office. You will receive a Blue Eagle, but before displaying it, you must put a white bar across its breast with the word "Provisional" on it. If your petition is finally approved by N. R. A. you may take the bar down. If your petition is not approved by N. R. A. you must comply with the Agreement in full.

4. Union Contracts. If you have a contract with a labor organization calling for longer hours than the President's Agreement allows, and this contract was made in good faith by collective bargaining and cannot be changed by you alone, try to get the labor organization to agree to a reduction to the maximum hours allowed by the President's Agreement. If the labor organization will not agree, you may apply to N. R. A. for permission to work your employees as many hours a week as the contract calls for. Send to N. R. A. a request for this permission, with a certified copy of the labor contract and any statement of fact you desire. This application will be handled by N. R. A. in the same manner as an application for relief in cases of individual hardship, filed under paragraph (14) P. R. A., but it will not be necessary to obtain the approval of a trade association or other organization. If N. R. A. approves your application or is able to bring about any modification of the contract, you will then be granted permission to work employees in accordance with the contract as originally written or modified, and then sign the Certificate of Compliance adding to it the following: "Except as required to comply with the terms of the Agreement in effect between the undersigned and the (Name of Labor Organization)."

Anti-Profiteering

(9) Not to increase the price of any merchandise sold after the date hereof over the price on July 1, 1933, by more than is made necessary by actual increases in production, replacement, or invoice costs of merchandise, or by taxes or other costs resulting from action taken pursuant to the Agricultural Adjustment Act since July 1, 1933, and in setting such price increases, to give full weight to probable increases in sales volume and to refrain from taking profiteering advantage of the consuming public.

The object of this paragraph is to prevent profiteering or speculation, so that prices will not rise faster than purchasing power, and destroy the President's plan. The danger to be avoided was pointed out by the President on June 16, 1933, in the statement which he made on signing the Recovery Act. He said, then:

"If we now inflate prices as fast and as far as we increase wages, the whole project will be set at naught. We cannot hope for the full effect of this plan unless, in these first critical months, and even at the expense of full initial profits, we defer price increases as long as possible. If we can thus start a strong, sound upward spiral of business activity our industries will have little doubt of black-line operations in the last quarter of this year. The pent-up demand of this people is very great and if we can release it on so broad a front, we need not fear a lagging recovery. There is greater danger of too much feverish speed."

If you were selling your merchandise on July 1, 1933, below cost, you may take your cost price on that date as the basis for determining the allowable increase under this paragraph.

Cooperation

(10) To support and patronize establishments which also have signed this Agreement and are listed as members of N. R. A. (National Recovery Administration).

The success of the President's Reemployment Agreement Program depends upon public support going to those who raise wages and shorten hours in accordance with this Agreement, in order to repay them for the extra expense which they have incurred in doing their part.

Codes

(11) To cooperate to the fullest extent in having a Code of Fair Competition submitted by his industry at the earliest possible date, and in any event before September 1, 1933.

This Agreement is a temporary measure to tide over the time from now until all employers and employees can cooperate under Codes of Fair Competition under the National Industrial Recovery Act. You agree, in this paragraph, to do all you can to have a Code submitted for your trade or industry before September 1, 1933.

Appropriate Adjustments

(12) Where, before June 16, 1933, the undersigned had contracted to purchase goods at a fixed price for delivery during the period of this Agreement, the undersigned will make an appropriate adjustment of said fixed price to meet any increase in cost caused by the seller having signed this President's Reemployment Agreement or having become bound by any Code of Fair Competition approved by the President.

This Agreement will, usually, increase the costs of those who sign it. The purpose of this paragraph is to pass any such increased costs along from one signer to another, and so on to the consumer.

If you have a contract made before June 16, 1933, to buy goods at a fixed price, you agree to make an arrangement with your seller so that you pay him for the extra cost to him caused by his having signed this Agreement, or having come under a Code approved by the President.

In some cases the final buyer is the Government, which, under existing law, is generally not allowed to pay more than the contract price. The President has announced that he will recommend to Congress that appropriations be made to allow the Government to play its part by paying Government contractors who have signed the Agreement for their increased costs. The President has also appealed to the States and cities to take action permitting them to do likewise.

You should have no fear that, because your buyer has not signed, you will be left with the increased cost on your alone. The President expects every employer to sign this Agreement.

Substitutions

(13) This Agreement shall cease upon approval by the President of a Code to which the undersigned is subject; or, if the N. R. A. so elects, upon submission of a Code to which the undersigned is subject and substitution of any of its provisions for any of the terms of this Agreement.

As pointed out in the explanation of paragraph (11) P. R. A. above, the President plans to have all business govern itself under Codes, and therefore Codes should be promptly submitted. If N. R. A. finds that the wages and hours provisions of a Code which has been submitted are within the spirit of this Agreement, N. R. A. will authorize your industry to operate under those provisions rather than under the wages and hours provisions of this Agreement.

Exceptions

(14) It is agreed that any person who wishes to do his part in the President's Reemployment Drive by signing this Agreement, but who asserts that some particular provision hereof, because of peculiar circumstances, will create great and unavoidable hardship, may obtain the benefits hereof by signing this Agreement and putting it into effect and then, in a petition approved by a trade association of his industry, or other representative organization designated by N. R. A., may apply for a stay of such provision pending a summary investigation by N. R. A. If he agrees in such application to abide by the decision of such investigation, this Agreement is entered into pursuant to section 4 (a) of the National Industrial Recovery Act and subject to all the terms and conditions required by sections 7 (a) and 10 (b) of that act.

If you really want to do your part in the President's Reemployment Program, sign this Agreement. If some particular part of this Agreement causes you, as an individual employer, great and unavoidable hardship, you may obtain relief by taking the steps outlined under the heading "Cases of Individual Hardship."

Save this sheet as your official source of information. If there are any problems in your mind which are not cleared up by this explanation, get in touch with the official N. R. A. representative in your community.

Your Good HEALTH

By CLAUD N. CHRISMAN, M.D.

Healthy Communities Know the Value of Strict Sanitation Laws

IN AFFAIRS of health as in anything else, it doesn't matter how much we know unless we are willing to put our knowledge to some practical use. The worst opposition to the advancement of sanitation here is either a careless indifference on the part of the public, or a callous selfishness that makes certain individuals refuse to abide by health regulations. Any locality that is sufficiently well organized to have sanitary regulations should provide itself with the needed authority to see that its regulations are obeyed.

THE duties of a sanitary officer or inspector require that he should have observation, a fair technical knowledge, a great deal of patience and much perseverance. He needs some knowledge of chemistry to analyze food supplies, especially milk and water. He must know considerable of general sanitary engineering. Much depends upon the installation of light, heat and electrical equipment. Ventilation must be guarded, drainage provided, special construction of foundations guaranteed for the safety of buildings. In industry there is no end to the safety devices that must be seen to and the countless provisions for comfort and health that are needed where many people work together under one roof.

GRAT advance is now being made in air conditioning not only in places of industry but in many private homes. The day isn't distant when we shall be as exacting about maintaining from here as we are in all times in our homes as we ever were about buying enough coal or splitting enough wood to keep us warm. A general familiarity with the soil characteristics, not only in one spot but in the surrounding region. Water supply and drainage grow more important every year. Not just the soil but the seasons and the climate must be understood.

SEWAGE disposal and the disposition of waste of every sort have to be studied to provide for destruction of bacteria and harmful gases. All slaughter houses and retail plants of every kind need to be strictly regulated. A great deal of intuition, a general knowledge of human nature and much philosophy will be called for when the sanitary official gets into the field of public nuisances. They may range from a barking dog that wrecks a nervous neighbor to a carelessly used garbage can whose odor takes some one's appetite.

SOMEWHERE in the sanitation regime must be some trained medical men who can look out for infectious diseases, their source, the means of contagion, and just who is responsible for breaking over the regulations concerning it. Just as a neighboring town has its forces out looking for the deadly typhoid that has just carried off one of its finest young men. The parents of a boy's camp not far from here are in great consternation over two cases of scarlet fever that seem to have come from nowhere. It is of the utmost importance that someone have wisdom enough to trace the source of these health menaces before many other victims are inoculated by their spread.

IN PURCHASING property in which to establish a home, one should have its health history as well as a clear abstract of its title. The germs of many infectious diseases may lurk for years in damp foundations and old wall paper.

Will you kindly advise me about my very brittle nails?
ANSWER: It is impossible to prescribe without knowing the cause. You may need copper instead of iron. It could be infection and bicarbonate of mercury solution would help. A good safe bet is a stiff course of quinine until the character of your blood stream changes. Nails grow from the nail bed and must be nourished like anything else.

Sealing Preserving Jars
One housewife solved this problem by putting a piece of old inner tube in the palm of her hand, wetting the rubber and then with the tube on the jar top, she screwed it as tightly as possible. It gives a splendid firm grip and consequently means a tighter top.

MANICURE TIPS FOR THE GIRL ON A VACATION

By JACQUELINE HUNT

TAKE along your manicure things when you go away on your vacation because your hands simply must look their best. They are exposed to critical eyes every hour of the day, and even when you are playing games or dancing—and besides when you meet a friend or a bunch you want to be able to let your fingers finger gallily in his clasp without feeling that you would like to snatch them away and hide them behind you.

Nail polish just won't stay on very long at a time when you are swimming and using your hands every minute in this hot weather. So you might just as well plan to give them a new finish every night or two. This is a good idea because it also gives you a chance to use special colors for special occasions.

Another good plan—and a healthy one for your nails—is to give up liquid polish during the summer except on the very special occasions when you want to be glamorous. The rest of the time, use one of the tinted pastes and your buffer and lots of hand cream to keep your nails smooth and your cuticles soft and smooth.

If you want to keep your nails nice you must resort to new methods. A little cuticle remover will remove the dead cuticle around your nails without breaking the skin or causing hangnails. Push your cuticles back gently with a towel or with a cotton-wrapped orange stick. You mustn't scrape your nails (it causes white spots) or file them at the sides until the delicate under skin is exposed and open to infection.

Precede your application of liquid polish by buffing the nails with a dry polish to smooth away any rough spots or ridges. Your liquid polish will be glossier and will stay in place longer. Of course, you use your polish remover at the very beginning of your manicure and then there is any trace of oil from cuticle or hand creams, use it again and let your nails dry so you will know that they are absolutely clean.

Be careful in applying liquid polish not to put it on too thick or to cover the half moon or tip. The difference between an expert and an amateur in the matter of manicures is that the expert uses less polish and gets her smooth, glossy results the first time.

Women are all excited about using different colored nail polishes to collaborate with their frocks and make-up, and when they use taste and discretion, the results are often lovely and exciting. Not all women can use vivid polishes, however. Hands must be graceful and well-shaped and neither too large nor too small. Bright polishes must not be used on nails with ridges, as it shows up in dark streaks. Your hands and arms must be smooth and well-cared for, too. If they are not to be handicapped when you are out, look for use a rich cream at night and a quick drying softening lotion during the day.

ANSWER TO QUERY
Dear Miss Hunt: I have a fine, smooth skin, but during the summer it has been unusually oily. What can I do before the condition damages my skin? M.K.
ANSWER: Your skin is more active in the summer than at any other time, especially if you are outdoors or exercise a lot. Cleanse your skin thoroughly with cream, then soap and water at night, and substitute an astringent for your usual tonic. Cleanliness is especially necessary since the skin is working extra hard to throw off its waste materials.

HEALTHY MEAL OF VEGETABLES

By JUDITH WILSON

SUMMER brings a wealth of fresh vegetables to the market stands and to our own back yard gardens. With the members of your family feeling that vacations are bested for the purpose of eating, why not let them also store up health for the coming winter by increasing their allotment of crisp, garden-fresh vegetables and fruit.

Vegetables Are Cheap
Corn on the cob, fried tomatoes, okra or eggplant made into spicy helpings, baked cucumbers, wax beans, creamed or made into salads, and fresh peaches or plums make in delectable desserts or served fresh can all be classed as low cost foods right now. Serve meatless meals occasionally and save money as well as give variety to your menus.

Stuffed Onions
I am sure you will like the stuffed onion entree in the first menu. Parboil four Bermuda onions until they can be pierced with a fork. Remove a small part of the inside and fill the cavities with a mixture made from four stalks of celery, chopped, and one-fourth cup nut meats, chopped. Sprinkle with one-half cup of grated cheese and put in a moderate oven just long enough to brown. Serve garnished with watercress and sliced red and green peppers. This will serve four.

Spicy Okra
Gay Spanish restaurants right now are featuring spicy helpings of okra. To prepare one dish, wash a quart of tender young okra pods and cut off their ends. Put them in a sauce pan with one-fourth pound of raw chopped ham and a tablespoon of chopped onion. Cover with a combination of soup stock and canned tomatoes and simmer gently for half an hour or until the okra is tender. Remove a tablespoon each of butter and flour to a cream and when the okra are cooked stir this in. Season with a few grains of red pepper, pepper and salt, and cook gently for another five minutes. Sprinkle with chopped parsley and serve.

Peach Betty
Peach betty is one of the nicest summer desserts I have run across. It is delightful when served warm at the close of a cold meal. You will need about three cups of sliced peaches and two cups of bread crumbs. Use a baking dish that has a tight-fitting cover, butter it well and put in a layer of sliced peaches. Sprinkle with sugar and cinnamon, dot with butter and add a layer of crumbs. Continue to alternate layers of crumbs and fruit, having a layer of crumbs on top. Finish with a sprinkle of sugar and cinnamon and dots of butter. Cover and bake for forty minutes, then remove the top and allow to brown.

Fried Tomatoes
To fry tomatoes, wash them, cut off the stem end, then cut in half-inch slices. Beat an egg slightly and dilute it with a tablespoon of water. Dip the tomatoes in this and then into the bread crumbs. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and brown in hot fat, then lower the heat and allow to cook through. Some people like to serve the fried tomatoes with a cheese sauce or with a bacon gravy and then garnish the platter with bacon curls.

Molded Vegetable Salad
For the latter, dissolve one package of lemon gelatin in one pint of boiling tomato juice. Season with one teaspoon salt and allow to thicken slightly. Add two cups of mixed cooked vegetables and fill pepper paste that have been parboiled for two minutes in salted water then drained and chilled. Chill until firm. When ready to serve slice the peppers into three-quarter inch slices.

THE MOIRE VOGUE ONCE AGAIN

Moire is staging a vigorous comeback. The ensemble shown above is of artificial silk moire and features a novel, buttoned, over-cloak on the jacket.

New York—Although reports from Paris are to the effect that chic women are wearing stockings as nearly matching the skin as possible, this need not upset your plans for ordering darker hosiery for fall. The flesh idea is only important because of the exposed necks and arms, short sleeves being a Parisienne preference. Our better class shops indicate that the hosiery trend is toward darker colors. There are a few mesh novelties being worn but the majority of women find plain, sheer, silk more kindly.

Velvet Capes
Velvet capes are Paris' newest way of underscoring, as it were, the tremendous emphasis that is being placed on velvet toques, presenting a fall version of the accessory ensemble.

The touch of velvet in combination with another fabric is one of the hitherto untried details of the season—whether the velvet is part of the dress or is an applied accessory.

Although the majority of frocks still endorse belts, a number of costumes are along pinkish or semi-princess lines, with high-waisted effects. Moderately high necklines in front are preferred, though much lower at back. However, there are not nearly as many extreme effects as during the past winter.

The prices line is about the forecast for autumn, although one does read of any number of frocks at a being shown. One rather the more on that the line is on princess and that one wears a belt or not, according to one's preferences in the matter.

The owner of the small house, who cannot afford the luxury of two bathrooms, can convert a single large bathroom into two connecting rooms with the use of a partition. In one section a bath tub and a basin can be installed, while the other can have the toilet and a washbasin.

The woman of average height needs a kitchen sink that is slant thirty-six inches from the floor, measuring from the upper rim.

Going on a picnic with the children? Then take along some peanut butter and honey sandwiches. Take two parts of peanut butter and one part of liquid honey and mix to a smooth paste.

To remove candle grease from a polished table lay a piece of blotting paper over the grease and press paper with a heavy hot iron. Heat melts grease and blotting paper absorbs it.

Let Nature Dictate
Occasionally one comes across a mother who does not allow her baby to crawl. She may offer the excuse that floor covering can't be clean if it is walked on, or that the child never presents a clean appearance, no matter how hard she may work at keeping him clean. Or she may argue that she did not crawl as a baby and learned to walk and therefore does not see why it should be necessary for her child to crawl.

Such mothers need to be informed that crawling is a necessary step to walking. It prepares the child to hold himself erect by strengthening his back. When a child shows an inclination to crawl, he should be allowed to crawl. But he should not be forced to stand up nor be taught to walk until he is ready. As in the case of crawling, he will indicate when he is ready to walk.

Home-Making
By ALICE STEPHEN
Use honey as a substitute for sugar in fruit cocktails. For something new in the way of flavoring, add a little cinnamon.

If you want a smooth drink, add a slice of lemon to a glass of ginger ale.

You and Your Child

TEACHING BABY HOW TO WALK

By JANE HERBERT GOWARD

SPEECH, like walking, is an acquired characteristic. Every normal child has the capacity for either accomplishment, but in each case it must be taught.

With walking, how a child is taught frequently determines whether he will carry himself gracefully. If a baby should fall when taking his first step, he will be frightened and will not walk.

An accident often retards a child's interest in walking. If a baby has hurt himself during a walking lesson, it may be necessary to stimulate a desire to walk the next time he is put on his feet. Hold him under his little arms to give him confidence. Take a few steps with him to refresh his memory as to how it should be done. If he seems to enjoy it, pick up an object and hold it out for him to come and get. Make sure to offer something which you know he will want.

The idea is not to stand too far away from him. If it is just a few short steps he ought to be able to make it successfully before he realizes that he has walked. The danger of a longer distance is that he may realize what he is doing when he is half way across, grow alarmed and lose his balance. Mother should be stationed where she can reach out and catch him at the first sign of faltering.

See that baby's first shoes have flat moderately flexible soles. The tongue and toe should be of the same piece of leather. The shoes should fit snugly around the ankles. Baby is ready to wear a pair of shoes when his foot almost touches the end of the shoes.

Let Nature Dictate
Occasionally one comes across a mother who does not allow her baby to crawl. She may offer the excuse that floor covering can't be clean if it is walked on, or that the child never presents a clean appearance, no matter how hard she may work at keeping him clean. Roller Coaster in Old Abyssinia... From Mule Skinner to Coal Baron

ETHIOPIA, native land of the Prince Desta Denu, special ambassador of Emperor Haile Selassie I, who recently visited America, claims to be the oldest Christian sovereign state. This may seem strange, but perhaps there is some basis for the claim because Christianity was introduced into Ethiopia about A. D. 300. There are about 15,000 Christian churches in the empire and of the 10,000,000 inhabitants, about half are Christians of the true Ethiopian (Hamitic-Semitic) type.

The Ethiopian Empire, or Abyssinia, is a rugged country without roads, without cities, a wild country not yet overrun by the safaris of ruthless hunters and stripped of game. The country is bristling with shining broad-bladed lances and rifle barrels. Pagan and Somali men are armed with long knives and spears. Arabs carry curved Damascus blades or knobby bludgeons, but only Amharics may own guns.

In a background like the one described above, therefore, it would be very strange indeed if tourists to Abyssinia, some day in the near future, should find typical American amusements as a roller coaster, shoot-the-chutes, a Ferris wheel and a side show. Yet such a thing is possible, for Prince Desta Denu while in America visited one of our amusement parks and immediately fell victim to our simple but thrilling pleasures. He said before returning home that he would like to build sort of a Congo Island in his native land.

In 1917, when Yassu, the flighty, was dethroned, his middle-aged aunt, Judith, became Empress. Their princely cousin, then less than 20 years old, Tafari Makonnen, was appointed Prince Regent. Thereafter, visitors returning from Ethiopia told pleasant tales of the gentlemanly Prince, who, while the Empress remained regent, welcomed foreigners. Visitors were fed from golden plates. They received presents of trinkets. Ethiopian war-shields and lion trinkets were sold. Prince is now Lord King of Kings of Ethiopia, Conquering Lion of the Tribe of Judah, the Elect of God and the Light of the World.

The wife of Prince Desta Denu, the Princess Tanaqacha, is the eldest daughter of the King. If an amusement park constructed after the fashion of those which dot our own American landscape seemed fantastic in Abyssinia, other modern buildings are a reality. The kindly and hospitable King has invested great sums for hospitals, schools, residences. He has decreed that all children must learn to read and write. He has contracted with American engineers for great irrigation projects, so that the arid lands of his people may become fertile and productive.

FROM mule skinner in the depths of a coal mine to leader of mine operators in the Pennsylvania coal war is the record of Thomas Moses, whose name has recently appeared in newspapers in connection with mine troubles in the Keystone State.

For twenty years Thomas Moses has headed various coal subsidiaries of the United States Steel Corporation. He is an old-fashioned industrialist and therefore President Roosevelt's new deal campaign will be put to the test in attempting to change or modify his policies.

As a youngster Thomas Moses worked as a mule skinner. He is now he is boss of 50,000 men. Thirteen, he says, is his lucky number, for it was this number which helped him to emigrate and power. He served thirteen years as superintendent of the United States Fuel Company, a steel subsidiary, before becoming its president in 1927. The letter which summoned him to this office, he says, was dated July 13. The corporation's office number was 1313 on the thirteenth floor of the Carnegie building in Pittsburgh. He also notes that his predecessor died on June 13 and that he was married on February 13.

Thomas Moses was forced to leave school to earn a living when only 11 years old. He earned $1.75 a day driving mules in Danville, Illinois, and later became a miner at $3 a day. He climbed out of the pit through various mine jobs. Governor Yates made him Secretary of the State Mining Board. When he took over the presidency of the Steel subsidiary he was also made president of three coal railroads and seven coal companies in Pennsylvania, Kentucky, Illinois and Indiana.

To show the man's method it is interesting to learn that he admits he didn't even know the names of the companies over which he was to preside. He said, however, "I'll make 'em work."

HOUSEKEEPING ISN'T ALWAYS IRKSOME TASK

By MARIAN MAYES MARTIN

IT SEEMS strange that this generation of housekeepers seem to dislike housekeeping more than those of a previous generation, for never before have there been more engaging or easier things to employ in keeping house. "I just love to fuss around my kitchen," said an old fashioned housekeeper recently. "everything is so pretty." But the mistress of the kitchen, in which "everything was so pretty," did not share her guest's enthusiasm.

WHEN housework was positive drudgery, instead of the simplified task it is in modern homes, there seemed to have been less grumbling about tedious things clean. And when there wasn't a delicatessen close at hand, and canned goods were regarded with dark suspicion, there was certainly less fault finding about getting dinner. And there were certainly better dinners.

WHAT is wrong with the picture? Have women gone so soft on their jobs that even the slightest exertion is more than they can bear? Or have we all grown lazy? Not a pleasant thought, and one that seems to be contradicted by the evidence of great energy expended in outdoor sports.

THE modern athletic young woman cannot be said to be so delicate that she cannot wield a mop or operate a vacuum. As a matter of fact she is physically fatter, more able to cope with cleaning, housework than her forebears. Perhaps she is more intelligent, and has come to the conclusion that housework is just a waste of time that could be more profitably spent. And to this I am in hearty accord. If she is sure that it can be more profitably spent.

I HAVE in mind women with the desire to write, and who never have a spare moment to devote to their pen. The community in which I live is full of such women, some married, and with houses that are as neat as a pin, and some single, and to become daily more disordered while their mistresses struggle to express themselves.

AND do express themselves, not so much by their literary effusions as by the houses they spurn. Not that I underestimate literary effort, but it must be directed, it must be controlled. If there is danger of bringing the house almost literally down about one's ears. If there is money for a maid, the house must be kept clean, but even then, a maid needs a vision and this often more to the point than to the paragraphs that come so hard—and go still harder.

AFTER all the other members of the family must be considered. It is generally admitted that living with a genius is about the worst fate a man has in store, but after all there are compensations. But living with someone who thinks they are a genius—and who insist on all the prerogatives of genius—that is really the fate that is worse than death.

NO ONE with any common sense can blame a woman for preferring to do almost anything in preference to the actual drudgery of housework. She can be blamed, however, for discounting its importance and for not making provision for having it done, and well done, if she is not to do it herself.

A MAN marries for a home. There are exceptions, of course, but that is the rule. He usually provides the home; more exceptions, but again the rule. He also supplies the money for its upkeep; still more exceptions, and still the rule—so that it does seem as though the woman, even the preoccupied woman, who is the head of the home, should see to it that it is kept as any decent man has a right to expect his home to be kept.

AFTER all there is a vast difference between disliking the mechanics of housework and so completely scorning it that one is indifferent, even superior, to the task. And here's the thought to leave with you. Have you ever really tried to interest yourself in keeping your home sweet and clean and attractive, or have you just accepted some other woman's word for it, and are echoing her thought when you say, "I just loath housework?" Do you really, or is this a pose based on the idea that it marks you as a superior type of woman, which isn't necessarily so. All the women who really delight in housework are not morons by any means.

BOGUS COLONEL ESCAPES FROM JAIL HOSPITAL

SANTA ANA, Aug. 22.—William E. Boyd, 21, charged with posing as an army colonel from Texas, added another chapter to his south ern California adventures by escaping from the Orange county jail here today.

Boyd was arrested at March Field May 17, last, after it is alleged he represented himself as an army colonel transferred there and was issued a pistol.

He was also charged with passing worthless checks in Long Beach, Loretta Quist of Long Beach, who was with him, was returned to her home.

Sheriff C. W. Reele said Boyd swallowed glass three weeks ago while he was in the Compton jail but was transferred here and surgeons saved his life.

Today he took an iron bar from his cot, pried off the screen grating on his window and escaped with a 25-foot rope made by knotting his bed clothing together.

He was to have been arraigned in Los Angeles today on the federal charge.

Know Your Firms

Knitting Mills Is City, County Boon

During the past four months we have given our readers an adequate insight of our local industries and merchants and what their activity means to Richmond and Contra Costa County. We have always believed in the policy of trading and buying at home whenever it is possible to do so, and we further believe that when we trade at home and patronize these business concerns we are not only helping them but helping ourselves to prosperity and progress.

In the past we have told you many concerns which are usual and unusual lines of endeavor, and one that we know has helped to make Richmond and Contra Costa County an industrial center of note is the Princeton Knitting Mills, Inc., whose large plant is located at 1260 23rd Street, corner of Tulare Avenue here in Richmond. The personnel of this concern is Louis E. Merket, President; Mrs. A. E. Heber, Secretary-Treasurer.

You have undoubtedly seen their large plant and have wondered about their activities and what they manufacture. The building is devoted to their general offices and manufacturing equipment. The Princeton Knitting Mills, Incorporated employ a number of local people who are engaged in making various knit products, which are sold to our local stores and outside trade. These knit products have won much recognition not only locally but in several western states where they are sold and are known for quality and price.

This industry has joined hands with the President of the United States on his NRA program of recovery, and has adopted the code 100 per cent and is doing its part in the employment problem. Indeed the "Blue Eagle" "We Do Our Part" program is proudly displayed at their offices and plant.

In bringing your attention to the activities of the Princeton Knitting Mills, Inc. we lay particular stress on the fact that it is a local industry, pays city and county taxes and turns out merchandise that merits the trade. We do our part by insisting on their trade mark brands of Knitting Goods, when we purchase such articles from our merchants. The entire personnel of this concern are local business people and are helping to make Contra Costa County and Richmond a manufacturing center of note.

U. C. TEACHER STRUCK, KILLED

BERKELEY, Aug. 22.—Dr. Elizabeth High Smith, 48, assistant plant pathologist of the University of California, and sister of Professor Ralph Smith of the university faculty, was killed last night when struck by a motorcycle as she was crossing Shattuck avenue at Addison street.

The rider of the cycle was Andrew Shoo-hoo, 35, 2116 Channing Way, former University of California student, who was held on a technical charge of manslaughter.

Dr. Smith apparently stepped from the sidewalk directly into the path of the approaching machine, according to police. She died as she was being taken to Berkeley General Hospital in a police ambulance.

Authorities reported that Shoo-hoo apparently had not been traveling at an excessive rate of speed, though they said he was presumably "weaving" through traffic.

Dr. Smith lived at 1850-A Arch street. Besides her brother, she is survived by a sister, Miss Marian Smith, principal of the LeConte school.

Rebel Retailers Will be Swacked By Johnson Whip

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—UP.—Recovery Administrator Hugh S. Johnson called on the nation's retailers today to help prevent profiteering under the NRA. He pledged the support of the federal government to retailers who rebel against unreasonable prices charged by jobbers or wholesalers.

Johnson denounced the retailer to resist a "runaway market."

He told representatives of the 1,500,000 retail stores in the nation—here to form a code affecting 5,000,000 employees—that the NRA would be quick to punish any store that "cheats on the Blue Eagle."

Economic Death
Johnson denied he advocated a boycott. Then he elaborated on a recent statement that withdrawal of the Blue Eagle from a merchant "was a sentence of economic death."

Every retail unit in the country except grocery and other food dealers and drug stores was represented as Johnson strode on the platform of the United States Chamber of Commerce auditorium and began his speech saying:

"This is one of the most significant hearings we have had."

Later Johnson revealed at his press conference he was working on a plan to loosen commercial credit so it could be more readily available to businessmen under the terms of their NRA agreements.

He said the present condition of commercial credit was due to "timidity" than to lack of cooperation from bankers.

He declared he already has consulted the Federal Reserve Board

And The Court Smiled
"Oh, those?" said the witness. "Well, maybe. But they didn't do much good. I'll tell you that."

This time the court grinned and the jury tittered openly.

NEW SALARY SUITS TO BE INSTITUTED

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 22.—Definite indication that he was preparing to file another action in superior court against constables and justices of the peace alleged to have received $25,000 in salaries illegally was given today by Frank J. Hollander of this city.

The first suit was brought to a close when Superior Judge Thomas D. Johnson sustained a demurrer filed by 17 defendants claiming that insufficient facts were stated and that there was a misjoinder of parties.

While Hollander was granted 10 days to amend his complaint, he reported today that his attorneys were preparing a suit naming a single defendant in order to preclude possibility of a second misjoinder demurrer.

In event of a favorable ruling, Hollander is expected to file separate actions against all other officials named in his original complaint unless those subject to suit agree to settle.

Instituted in April, Hollander's suit came as the aftermath of a grand jury hearing in which the district attorney ruled that testimony given by Hollander was not sufficient to warrant criminal prosecution.

The complaint alleged that population figures were increased in certain townships and that as a result the officials received salaries that were not due them. An injunction restraining payment of the allegedly illegal salaries was also asked.

On the basis of population figures, Hollander contended, justices and constables have received illegal payments since 1910 amounting to $140,000, but demands for money paid prior to April 1, 1933, are barred by the statute of limitations.

Hoover Rejects Invite to Bank Quiz at Detroit

PALO ALTO, Aug. 22.—UP.—Former President Herbert Hoover today announced he would not accept an invitation to voluntarily appear before the Detroit Grand Jury investigating closure of banks there.

In grand jury testimony, Senator James Couzens had charged the Hoover administration, convinced prosperity would soon return, had permitted banks through out the nation to act in technical violation of the law.

In a lengthy telegram to Prosecutor Harry T. of Detroit, Mr. Hoover today set forth his connection with the Detroit situation during those trying days of his administration.

"Detailed and competent information as to the relation of Federal authorities to the events leading to the closing of these banks can be obtained only from former officials of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, the Federal Reserve board, the then controller of the currency and from their records," Mr. Hoover said in explaining why he felt nothing could be gained by his appearing before the Grand Jury.

Alpha Masons Have Visitors

Officers of the Thirtieth Masonic district were guests of Alpha lodge of Masons last evening in the local temple.

A school of instruction was held followed by the service of refreshments. John LeGault headed the supper committee.

dance was a combination of "the shimmy and rumba." Like Miss Lane she had never taken dancing lessons, yet had been five years in the business.

"My costume, is not immodest," she said.

Lucy Murphy!
"What is your jungle dance?" asked Prosecutor Joe Murphy. "Why, you know," Miss Shannon said. "You've seen it."

"Murphy has seen everything," said the court with what seemed to be a tinge of envy.

The case was continued until today, when the dance number will be experted by dance specialists, and exponents of modesty.

GROWERS PLAN TO CUT WHEAT

LIVERMORE, Aug. 22.—UP.—Contracts under the Federal domestic allotment plan for wheat are being distributed among ranchers of this area through the Livermore-Pleasanton Farm Center.

The plan was outlined by T. O. Morris, Alameda county farm advisor, at a recent meeting here and a material reduction in the wheat acreage of the valley is expected to result.

The plan is expected to be operative by September 1. Those signing the contracts agree to reduce their wheat acreage 80 per cent. They will receive a government allotment of 20 cents per bushel late this fall. Next year a second allotment of 8 cents per bushel, less the cost of administering the plan.

Venison Banquet Closes Card Game

"Solo" being an energetic card game, works up a good appetite for its devotees.

About 24 players last evening finished their game at the Elks club, threw down their cards and, in one voice wished they "had something to eat."

John A. Miller rose to the occasion. He ushered them to tables where a delicious venison feed awaited them.

It is predicted that about 124 card players will be wandering all over the clubrooms tonight wishing they "had something to eat" very audibly.

Miller says he is all out of deer meat. Tough luck.

GAS BILLS LOWERED

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 22.—UP.—In the twelve months ending June 30, the state railroad commission ordered reductions of $3,895,538 in gas and electric bills. C. C. Brown, commission engineer, reported today.

NEW BUILDING YEAR BRIGHTER

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 22.—The state registered 22,365 contracts during the 1932-33 fiscal year despite the low ebb of construction.

Carlos W. Huntington, state registrar of contractors, said today the general outlook for building activities during the coming year is exceedingly bright.

Of the total 4484 registrations were for new licenses, the remaining being renewals.

Los Angeles leads the State with 9623 contractors during the past year compared with 11,020 the preceding year.

San Francisco has 2524 contractors, a decrease of 58, and Alameda County has 1842 contractors, a decrease of 166 from the registrations ending June 30, 1932.

Santa Cruz appears to be the bright spot in the State so far as construction increase is concerned. There were 186 more contractors registered from that county during the last year than during the preceding 12 months, the totals being 358 and 173 respectively.

San Mateo County contractors increased 47 during the last year, Calaveras and Nevada two each and Inyo and Mariposa one each.
